

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASEA Sweet Treat for Local Elementary School Students

PHOENIX, Arizona, April 19, 2013 – Today 750 students at a local elementary school were treated to ice cream bars as an after lunch treat following a week of annual AIMS test.

“The students work hard on these tests and even a small treat can motivate and improve performance. We were delighted to make this donation and reward students for a job well done, and will always support education in our community,” said Deedee Myers, CEO, DDJ Myers, Ltd.

The AIMS test is a standardized test administered by the State of Arizona assessing students reading, writing, and mathematic skills.
