

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER
Public Service Credit Union
$1.4B Assets
Denver, Colorado

This is a rare career opportunity to take the helm of an already successful credit union and chart the course for the next level of success.

The role of the CEO is to inspire the execution of the mission and vision of the credit union through a healthy and viable organization that develops high performing employees in service to members. Build from a strong cultural foundation and create alignment through all levels of the organization.

Reporting to an exemplary board, the CEO will help position the credit union in the market, co-create the culture, represent the credit union in the community, and identify priorities and resource allocation to fulfill strategies. We are looking for a creative thinker who builds strong relationships within and outside of the organization. This ambitious organization seeks someone who blends strong goal orientation with employee coaching skills.

Denver-based Public Service Credit Union is well established with strong financials — including an ROA of 1% and extraordinary loan growth (over 22% in 2013). Over 28 branch locations from Colorado Springs to Fort Collins provide solid market penetration. A recent organizational alignment survey and onboarding coaching will support the incoming CEO for success.

ROLE REQUIREMENTS:

Education: Bachelor's degree in finance/business, MBA preferred. Extraordinary experience and results coupled with ongoing learning could substitute.

Experience: 10 years minimum industry experience, and 5 years minimum executive level experience (VP, EVP or C-Level), plus a history of community involvement.

Leadership Skills: Analytical problem solving, interpersonal skills, communication, collaboration, employee coaching, creativity, decision-making, goal orientation and a well-grounded leadership presence.
