

Tim Tolliver, B.A., MSC, ACC
Vice President, Executive Performance

As an executive coach and facilitator, Tim has become known as a force multiplier to leaders seeking their next level of executive presence and performance. Leveraging essential principles of human development, and somatic transformation Tim works with CEOs and executive teams to align attention and action in ways that produce tighter coordination and execution, deeper relationships, and higher levels of organizational success.

Tim is an ICF Certified Executive Coach and a Master Somatic Coach through the Strozzi Institute, where he is a lead teacher in their School of Embodied Leadership, a week-long intensive executive leadership program. He is a primary teacher in DDJ Myers' "C" Yourself executive development program and the award-winning Emerging Leaders Program. Tim coaches CEOs to cultivate an executive presence that builds trust and inspires action.

A lifelong martial artist and athlete, Tim is a student of the body's innate power and potential and is passionate about developing leaders who can access and employ their best when it matters most. He holds a degree in psychology from the University of Alaska and is a three-time world champion in the International Karate Association. Tim and his family live on the island of Oahu, where they enjoy exploring the pristine natural beauty that the island has to offer.
